

SUNKEN SUNKEN GARDENS

Sunken Sunken Gardens are a breathtaking, yet terrifying, testament to a forgotten civilization. Colossal, bioluminescent flora intertwine with crumbling architecture, all perpetually submerged in a labyrinth of magically charged waterways. The water itself pulses with an eerie energy, swirling unpredictably and carrying the scent of decay and strange blossoms.

ADVENTURE HOOKS & RUMORS

- A desperate message, carried by a current, speaks of a Deep Bloom Collective outpost rapidly expanding near the central Sunken Spire. They are experimenting with amplifying the magical currents to create a permanent pathway to the surface, and rumors suggest they're sacrificing captured surface dwellers to fuel the process.
- Locals whisper of "Bloom-Touched" – individuals exhibiting strange mutations and fervent devotion to the parasitic growth. They are said to be manipulating the currents to ensnare travelers and lure them deeper into the gardens, offering "ascension" to the collective.
- A cartographer claims to have discovered a hidden chamber within the gardens, containing ancient texts detailing a method to disrupt the growth's life cycle. However, the chamber is guarded by a particularly violent and unpredictable current, and the texts are written in a language only understood by the Deep Bloom Collective.
